

Patrick
Matthews (left)
and Craig Nicholls in a rare moment of peace.

The Vines Take The U.S.A.

The Vines are back in the States for another American tour, accompanied by Jet and the Living End. The last time the Australian four-piece visited the U.S., they treated fans to a non-stop parade of fist-fights and tantrums – so what do they have planned as an encore? “We’re trying to find more ways to incorporate violence into our shows,” frontman Craig Nicholls says. “I might get a knife and stab our drummer. I’m not completely ruling that out.” The Americans will love that, we’re sure.